Margaret A. Dixon Elected President of AARP

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Long-time educator and volunteer Margaret A. Dixon, Ed. D., of Clinton, Maryland, has been elected president of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

Dr. Dixon received the gavel of the 37-year-old association from outgoing President Eugene L. Lehrmann on Wednesday, May 22, 1996 during the organization's Biennial Convention in Denver. During her two-year tenure as president of America's leading organization for people age 50 and older, Dr. Dixon will work to ensure that AARP continues its effort to be a dynamic presence in every community.

"The first wave of baby boomers turn 50 this year, bringing a whole new perspective to the meaning of aging. Their knowledge and experiences, combined with those of their parents and grandparents, will enrich the aging experience in our society.

A graduate of Allen University in her native Columbia, South Carolina, Dr. Dixon earned a degree in Education. She holds Masters of Arts Degrees from Hunter College and New York University, a Professional Diploma in Educational Leadership from Fordham University, and a Doctorate in Education from Nova Southeastern University.

Dr. Dixon became involved with AARP in 1988 to help implement its Minority Affairs Initiative. Serving as spokesperson, she helped to increase the presence and involvement of minorities in AARP's education, advocacy, and community service programs. Since then, she has served on the board of trustees of the AARP investment program from Scudder, as trustee of the AARP Group Health Insurance Trust, and on the Board of Councilors of the Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center at the University of Southern California. She also served as National Secretary of AARP and as a member of the Board Audit Committee and the Chapter Advisory Committee.

AARP is the nation's leading organization for people age 50 and over. It serves their needs and interests through legislative advocacy, research, informative programs, and community services provided by a network of local chapters and experienced volunteers throughout the country.

Gilbertson, A Racist Goes to Trial

By Cheryl Brown
Black Voice News

The so called "race card" made popular by the O.J. Simpson trial seems to be at the heart of the preliminary trial that ended with defendant Charles Gilbertson being held over for trial. Judge Peter Norell fueled the testimony and said he "didn't believe this is a trial based on race."

Gilbertson will stand trial for the murder of 18-year-old Jamall Slaughter, who was shot and killed admittedly by Gilbertson after Chris Parrish, 26 told him that his daughter fifteen year old Patricia was being raped in the basketball star's apartment on May 30,

The defendant was bound over and a request for release on his own recognizance (O.R.) was denied by Judge Norell.

He withheld comment about the O.R. and $1 million dollar bail but did comment on the "race card" issue. "I don't think there is evidence to brand Mr. Gilbertson a racist. The shooting was not solely motivated on Mr. Slaughter being a Black American. This case is not about this," stated Judge Norell.

In Tuesday's hearing, Gilbertson told investigators he preferred his fifteen year old daughter date only White people. He also told them Black people had to prove themselves to him and that he preferred to live only with Whites.

The Public Defender, David Negus likened this racist feeling o most of the people in the District Attorney's office. He aid the inflammatory tatements were not witnessed by credible people. The nature of the scene of the crime was hostile because the people were anti-police. The complex, Eastwood Apartments, is 90% Black. Negus conceded his views were not politically correct however, "they are attitudes which are shared by many people in our country and t doesn't establish a motive."

He also agreed: if the girl, Patricia, had obeyed her parents, his would not have happened.

If Jamall had not lied, he would be alive. If Jamall had not "made" her drunk, and committed a felony on her (sex with an under-aged minor)... if Mrs. Lucy Gilbertson, the defendant's wife and manager of the apartments, didn't handle the situation as she did... if Chris Parrish, had not instigated the incident... if Gilbertson had acted like a trained police officer instead of a father... if he had done a background check on the victim, maybe Jamall Slaughter would be alive today.

Gilbertson was accused by Negus of only using "bad judgement" not committing a felony.

Deputy District Attorney Joe Gaetano was short and to the point, "I did not introduce the 'race card,' Mr. Gilbertson did because he made the statements. The fact is Mr. Gilbertson walked up to the door and shot Slaughter. The witness heard no threats."

They did hear his wife, Lucy say, "Charles, what have you done?" Chris Parrish said, "you shot a brother for no reason!" Trisha, his daughter said, "you didn't have to shoot him."

Gilbertson said he had problems with his daughter and described her as promiscuous. He thought she was having sex with Slaughter in his apartment.

His daughter whom Negus says is now sorry for what happened said her dad has a quick temper.

Dwight Slaughter and the entire family were ecstatic over the outcome of the hearing. Slaughter and Jamall's mother, LaToya Green, both said they felt they had jumped a major hurdle. He felt the former L.A. policeman was trying to get away with murder and Slaughter felt race was an issue. "When you tell people the next N.... who messes with my daughter will be killed, and when you brag you know how to control N..... because of your experience with the 1965 Watts riots, when you say you can kill a N.... and be out in 30-days. That is a racially motivated crime. He didn't say the next White boy, he said the next N....." stated Slaughter.

Mrs. Green said, "I feel happy, happy, happy." However, she disagrees that this is a race issue. "I don't believe the trial is racial. I don't believe he (Gilbertson) shot him because he was Black. Stick to the facts he went in and shot him," she said.

Grandmother Lillie Woolfolk said this should be a lesson for all these Black boys

Stop the Violence Increase the Peace, Running for Peace

By Paul A. Hurst Sr.
BVN Staff Writer

Inglewood CA - It was a "5K/10K Run/Walk" for peace. Stop the Violence and Increase the Peace held their First Annual Peace Consortium Saturday July 9th at the Great Western Forum. More than a thousand runners and walkers gathered in the early morning calm for an aerobic warm-up and prayer prior to the start of the run. The runners were from all racial backgrounds and religious persuasions.

As the runners proceeded along the route pictures of individuals killed by acts of violence laced the path bringing home the point that violence kills. Young or old, black, white, brown, or yellow, it kills without discrimination. It was a dramatic way of demonstrating that the seriousness of violence in our society must be addressed and we can no longer turn our heads or hide from its ugliness.

"Peace is quickly despairing from our planet and we are evolving into a violent culture" as stated by Dr. Sergio G. Jaquez, President of the Lynwood Chapter of Stop the Violence. We must embrace and preserve that age old tradition of being our brothers keeper. The agenda of Stop the Violence and Increase the Peace will be a major pioneering force n redirecting our focus towards preserving peace in the world.

We believe "the lack of peace is one of the most mportant problems facing humanity today" said Dr. Ananda Guruge of, United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) headquartered in Paris, France. We should move away from all other priorities to his one major priority and that s to spread the prevention of violence. We think, and we act as we think. If we can think without violence, if our thoughts can be those of love, kindness, and compassion then we have achieved the first qualifications as achievers of peace. "Peace is not only the absence of war but the absence of violence at all levels" said Dr. Guruge.

Khalid Shaw, founder of Stop the Violence Foundation, said "today was a testament that the community is coming together to deal with the issues of violence and increase peace." Because this was our first annual 5K/10K Run/Walk, people didn't expect such a great turnout, but it was tremendous and it will be better next year.

Muhammad Nassardeen, Board Member of Stop the Violence and Increase the Peace, was delighted at the turnout as well. He pointed out the fact that there were Black, White, Asian, and Hispanics all running together for the cause of stopping the violence and increasing the peace. Without a doubt this is a movement worthy of support by every person on earth. If we don't stop the spread of violence, the spread of violence will stop us.

Voice News Wins in National Competition

Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun (D-ILL) was one of the many national figures who addressed the National Newspaper Publishers Association's 56th Annual Convention in Houston, TX, June 19-23.

Speaking in an international roundtable session designed to build bridges to African countries, Sen. Braun and NNPA President Dorothy R.

experience, I got to know Africans and some of the things they talk about and want. I feel this type of personal and cultural information supersedes that of my colleagues," Moseley-Braun told the audience. Sen. Moseley-Braun and NNPA President Dorothy Leavell both agreed the Western media produces biased articles and television reporting about Africa, shaping the minds of many Americans to believe Africa is filled with ethnic war, of the convention was the 'Building Bridges Leadership Roundtable' that enabled the Black Press and other African-American leaders to interact and address important issues facing our communities." The panel discussion group included leaders of civil rights, church, media and community action groups. Rev. Ben Chavis of the National African-American Leadership Summit (NAALS), James Campbell of the Houston Chronicle and retired

President Leavell, Reverend Bobby Lee, sponsor from Denny's Restaurant & Vice President Hardy Brown after a wonderful Prayer Breakfast.

Kirbyjon brought the house down at the Prayer Breakfast

Leavell, declared strong opposition to U.S. sanctions against Nigeria and demanded fairness in the Clinton administration's treatment of the West African nation.

Moseley-Braun, the only African American in the U.S. Senate, said Africa isn't even on the map when it comes to foreign policy programs and practices in Congress. One of her goals, Moseley-Braun said, is to put Africa on a priority list for foreign policy, even though her colleagues don't see the significance. "I have a strong personal attachment to Africa," she said. "Before coming to the Senate, I traveled there on several occasions. Through my disease, famine and cycles of violence.

More than 350 people attended the convention whose theme was "The Black Press: Changing America by Building Bridges." Highlights included speeches by African-American U.S. Under-Secretary of Defense Edwin Dorn; Hugh Price, executive director, National Urban League; national activist C. Delores Tucker, who heads the National Political Congress of Black Women, Chicago attorney Thomas N. Todd and Houston minister and author Rev. Kirbyjon Caldwell.

According to Convention Chairman Hardy Brown, "A significant and symbolic point

Along the Color Line: Why The Churches Burn?

Every year, it seems like there's a national event involving Black people which allows virtually all White Americans to "prove" they aren't racist. During the Clarence Thomas confirmation hearings, White reactionaries in Congress took great joy in the public defense of a Black man, condemning liberals for committing a "high-tech lynching." In the last presidential election, White Republicans and Democrats alike deplored the racial uprising in Los Angeles, rarely examining the deeper reasons for the Black community's rage. Last year, when O.J. Simpson was acquitted by a predominately Black jury, or when a million African-American men marched on Washington, DC, nearly the entire White establishment accused Black folks with "reverse racism."

Now in the election year, we have an issue which once again allows prominent and powerful Whites to be sanctimonious on race: the epidemic of racist firebombings against African-American churches.

In the last six years, there have been 216 fires and desecrations in churches throughout the US. Half of these burnings have taken place since January, 1995, and nearly three-fourths of those have been African-American churches in the South. For months, few outside the Black community listened or cared about this escalating crisis of vigilantism. Finally, as the pace of burnings increased, officials used the opportunity to take a public stand against intolerance and bigotry.

Republican presidential candidate Robert Dole attempted to win a few Black votes by calling upon the Justice Department and police agencies to identify "the cowards responsible for these vicious acts of hate." Republican Senator Lauch Faircloth of North Carolina cosponsored a bill with liberal Democrat Ted Kennedy, which would permit the Department of Housing and Urban Development to guarantee private loans to repair Fauntroy were among participants in discussions, which were led by President Leavell. "We intend to continue these types of broad-reaching dialogues," said Mrs. Leavell. "It was, and still is the responsibility of the Black Press to be the voice of change and lighting the road to freedom. And I take it as a serious responsibility to assemble present and would-be leaders in our communities to speak before our publishers so we can examine the issues closely and then play the role we are expected to, to make things happen for the betterment of our people," Leavell said.

In addition to the leadership discussions, the Black Press, African Americans' second oldest institution, also forged a working relationship with the National Baptist Convention Inc., USA toward a major subscription drive to be coordinated through over one-half million churches in America. "I feel this was the high point of the convention. To have the Black Church and Press come together on better ways to reach our common constituencies is significant," said Mrs. Leavell.

During the five day convention attendees were provided a variety of other workshops. To increase the Black-oriented newspaper industry's level of participation in evolving business tools and philosophy, the convention contained topics such as the Information Super Highway and business management. AT&T, the World African Network and who chase after White girls. "We are like Gilbertson we don't want our sons dating their girls. It is time for Black kids to stop dating White girls and go back to dating their own" she said. She believes if the situation did not involve different races her grandson would still be alive.

Mrs. Woolfolk said she also feels it is time for people to stop being threatened because of Black men's size. Gilbertson said he felt threatened because of the size of the 6'3" basketball player.

Chris Tyler, 15, a witness to the entire shooting did not go down the way the defense said. "He was on the blind side he came up from the back and put his gun around and shot him. It is not like they say it is," he told Black Voice News.

Gaetano said the next step is arraignment for trial. The dates will be selected an all purpose judge will be assigned just for this trial. Witnesses will be brought in instead of detectives. The jury will be selected and they will have the choice (of the punishment).

The arraignment will be July 26, Department 5, 3rd Floor 8:30 a.m. in the Rancho Cucamonga county courthouse.

K.C. CUSTOM TAILORING AND DESIGN

Linda Phelps BVN

RIVERSIDE - It all comes down to looking your best. There's no room for compromise.

If you're searching for quality tailoring, custom design in men and ladies fashion -- you're in good hands with master tailor Frederick K.C. McDowell.

Frederick received encouragement and support from both parents, Rev. K.C. McDowell and Bessie McDowell. He credits his mother's arts and crafts and sewing skills as his inspiration towards the field of Fashion Design & Tailoring.

As a young man, Frederick, began to tailor his own clothing.

Mentor and Poly High School Counselor, Irma Sutton - recognized a talent and advised Mr. McDowell to attend fashion design school.

Mrs. Wades Fashion Institute, and Trade School located in the Dallas Apparel Mart.

While attending school, he worked in the showroom of the Dallas Apparel Mart, in marketing and sales for wholesale manufacturers.

From the design school, he received his certificate in the trades of fashion design.

Upon his return to California, K.C., was selected to participate in an internship program, called the Roster Project, located in Hollywood.

During his internship, he worked side by side with head designers on the sets of movies and television.

He worked as a Design Assistant on the set of "From Here to Eternity," and as Wardrobe Assistant on the set of "Fantasy Island."

His work experience has included jobs in marketing, sales, display, and custom tailoring.

His decision to open his tailoring shop came after 15-years of sewing and tailoring for family and friends.

In keeping with the rhythm of summer, K.C. has created a line of custom tailored shorts and coordinating vest, ties, and bandanas.

If personal services and expertise are a must for you -- visit K.C. Custom Tailoring and Design at 3595 1/2 University Ave. (Orange street entrance), Riverside. Hours are 9 - 5 weekdays, 12 - 5 weekends, (909) 784-LION (5466).

Gospel Newcomer Pays a Visit

A beautiful young lady by the name of Helania Vashti Johnson whizzed into San Bernardino this week to visit her aunt, Georgianna (Gigi) Jackson. Helania is a recent graduate of Houston Tillison College, Austin, Texas. She majored in music and minored in mass communications.

Helania is a contralto soloist, of the highest quality. Her diction, voice, dramatic deliverance and sweetness is a gift, from God. She has polished her treasured vocal chords under the tutelage of Matilda Dobbs, Barbara Conrad opera singers and Kyle Turner,

Ms. Helania Vashti-Johnson jazz musician.

Singing at church and school functions gave her poise and polish from the gentle age of three. Such ladies known for their distinctive styling as Dinah

Washington and Sarah Vaughn were early inspirations to her. Out of all that has transpired in her life, she says "My heart is sold to Jesus and I am an evangelist for Him." To the aspiring young people she offers these words of wisdom, "Always put Jesus first. As you sing your love will reflect His love. Then remember to be open for growth, and continue your education."

Now that you've read a little about her -- watch for a possible Fall engagement about the 20th of October 1996 in the Inland Empire.

Questions & Answers

QUESTION: Dear Pastor Woods; What are the appropriate communication skills necessary for a husband and wife to live together successfully without fusing and fighting?

ANSWER: Communicating family life and issues is a necessary part of a successful marriage. Amos 3:3 says,

Communicate With My Spouse?

"How can two walk together except they be in agreement." Agreement is the key to achievement! You will not have a happy marriage if you and your spouse are going in different directions.

My wife and I attended a family reunion in her home town, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. At the family reunion we entered a three-legged race. We realized that if we wanted to win we would need to be in harmony. Therefore, we discussed our strategy and practiced prior to the race. This plan to achieve the same goal to win, resulted in our prize of 1st place. Likewise, a husband and wife must be committed to having a successful marriage, to discuss their strategy to obtain this condition, and then live a life that will achieve this goal.

In communication, you must predetermine that you will not injure your spouse because they disagree or not understand your position. You must be patient and sensitive looking at the "big picture" that is, your continual progress as a couple and family. Take time daily to have honest communication. Both of you must also commit to not be a baby and have your feelings easily hurt.

If you have a question that you would like answered, write: Dr. Reginald L. Woods, Life Changing Ministries, P.O. Box 9778, San Bernardino, CA 92427-9778

Safe Streets Act Drops Accidents

Riverside -- Riverside Police Department's enforcement of the 1-1/2 year old "Safe Streets Act" has resulted in a 21% reduction of hit and run traffic accidents.

In January of 1995, the "Safe Streets Act" also known as Assembly Bill 3148 became law throughout California. The law mandates a 30 day impound of vehicles driven by unlicensed drivers, including drivers with licenses that have been suspended or revoked. The law also allows for the permanent forfeiture of vehicles driven by an unlicensed driver who has a prior misdemeanor conviction for driving without a license or driving with a suspended license. A vehicle will not be impounded if the operator's driver's license expired within the previous 30 days.

The intent of this legislation is to remove unlicensed, suspended and revoked licensed drivers from our streets. These drivers are responsible for a high percentage of the traffic collisions in our city. Some collisions have resulted in injury or death. The Riverside Police Department implemented an enforcement program in March of 1995, resulting in a 21% reduction of hit and run accidents. Continued aggressive enforcement promises to further reduce the number of accidents caused by these individuals and save citizens from the tragedies that result.

Vehicle owners are required to pay an administration fee of $125.00, an average storage yard fee of $450.00, and a court imposed fine for the vehicle code violation. To date, approximately 3500 cars have been subject to the 30 day impound. fifty to sixty percent of those vehicles are reclaimed and the balance are held for lien sale.

The recent arrest of 30 year old Jaime Hernandez of Riverside exemplifies the benefit of this new legislation. On June 4, Mr. Hernandez was stopped by a police officer for excessive speed. He told the officer his driver's license was suspended. The officer impounded the vehicle as mandated by the new law. Further investigation revealed that Mr. Hernandez had been convicted for driving under the influence on 8 previous occasions. His vehicle was later sold at auction after being forfeited under the guidelines of the new legislation. The "Safe Streets Act" is responsible for removing this potentially dangerous driver from the streets of Riverside. Since March of 1995, the police department has completed proceedings on 4 out of 9 vehicles seized for forfeiture. These vehicles were sold at auction.

The Riverside Police Department is evaluation an opportunity to pursue funding from the State Office of Traffic Safety to enhance this program and combat D.U.I.'s (Driving Under the Influence).

Dr. Henry Full Professor

Dr. Mildred Dalton-Henry

Dr. Mildred Dalton Henry has been promoted to full professor at California State University in San Bernardino. The promotion is retroactive to September 1993, in compliance with an arbitration dispute and decision. In addition to her position as Professor in the School of Education at CSUSB, Dr. Henry is also the President and CEO of Provisional Educational Services, Incorporated, and the Founder and Director of the community-based Provisional Accelerated Learning (PAL) Center in San Bernardino-Muscoy.

1996-97 County Grand Jury Impaneled

SAN BERNARDINO -- Superior Court Presiding Judge Joseph E. Johnston announced the San Bernardino County Grand Jury for 1996-1997 was selected on June 24, 1996 and administered their Oath of Office and received the Charge of the Court July 1.

From a panel of 30 nominees selected by the Judges of the Superior Court, 19 names were randomly drawn to serve as the 1996-1997 San Bernardino County Grand Jury.

Serving on the County Grand Jury for 1996-97 are: Betty Azores, James T. Hall, Jr., James J. Palko, E.R. "Ray" Spears and Louanne Wear from San Bernardino. Colton is represented by Lydann Lord and Norreen A. Robinson. Donald P. Roy is from Yucca Valley. Chino Hills is represented by Ken C. Gandee. Earle R. Anderson, Helen Entenmann and Joyce Marcelo are from Alta Loma. Bert Klein is from Upland and Jose Serrato represents Ontario. Alvaro S. Alcantara is from Barstow. Representing Wrightwood are Bob Bean and Edna Silva. From the Victor Valley area of the County are James G. DeMunck of Apple Valley and William C. Sommers from Hesperia.

Bob Bean of Wrightwood was appointed by Judge Johnston to serve as Foreman of the 1996-97 Grand Jury.

Grand Jurors serve for one year and are called upon to hear criminal indictments as well as investigate and report on County government operations.

A Lesson in America's History

"Together They Did"

By Charles Ledbetter

"Men -- all men -- belong to each other and he who shuts himself away diminishes himself, and he who shuts another away from him destroys himself."

Howard Thurman, Search for a Common Ground, 1973

America needs to know about the "Montford Point Camp," which was located in the western part of Camp Lejeune in Jacksonville, NC.

One of the most exciting revelations of my trip to North Carolina to see my new grandson was when my son-in-law took me to "Camp Johnson," which was used to train Black marines during World War II. It was known at that time as "Montford Point Camp." On June 16 this year Afro-American marines were having a conference in a building that was set up with displays of the training and actions in combat our Black American marines participated in as they fought to keep America free from other nations during World War II.

"Man, if he wills, can do much for man, but only in the natural and human order. We can be men only if we help each other.

Jean Toomer, The Flavor of Man, 1949

I introduced myself as one of the "Tuskegee Airmen" and spoke of my twenty-nine combat missions over Korea. They were pleased as we shared many war stories and service experiences. I will share this information with readers of the Black Voice and other newspapers. This is from a book written by Bernard C. Nalty. "The Right to Fight: Afro-American marines in World War II."

"A young white marine, Edward Andrysko, of Company I-7th Marines saw his first Black leathernecks as he crossed the beach at Pelelice in September 1944, returning to the fight after having his wounds treated at a hospital ship off shore. The Afro-Americans were transferring ammunition from landing craft onto trucks and delivering it to the front lines. Handling ammunition struck him as "a dangerous task at any time" but with enemy shells churning the coral sands, it was a heroic, thankless job that few of us wanted."

"The first Marine Ammunition Company was formed at Montford Point on 1 October 1943 under 2nd Lt. Placido A. Gomez. Because their job was considered more dangerous than the work of the depot companies, the ammunition companies trained for two months instead of three weeks."

"The Marine Ammunition Company and Marine Depot Companies helped deposit cargo on the beach, as at Iwo Jima, and moved the supplies to the marines fighting their way inland. They often were inserted into the front lines as riflemen."

On Saipan the Black marines demonstrated their ability to fight alongside their White fellow marines. They were at Guam, landed at Tinian, Pelelia and Iwo Jima as combat units and they saved many White Americans.

It is a shame that the American Black youth do not know about these Black marines that were trained at Montford Point. I will tell everyone who is willing to listen. We have a lot to be proud of.

"Deal with me and with the other man and women of my race as individual problems, not as a race problem, and the problem will soon cease to exist."

Paul Williams, American Magazine, 1937

"When you come across a fool who can't help himself, always remember that he's a fool. Don't bother with him. On up the road he's liable to run into another fool and one of them will destroy the other."

Charles Russell

Affordable Housing's Manager of the Year

Rancho Mirage -- In recognition of his strong commitment to the local community and dedication to improving the quality of life for the residents of Villa Mirage Apartments, the Affordable Housing Management Association (AHMA) has named Renaud Vann Resident Manager of the Year in the "Family" category.

Vann has been Resident Manager of the 50-unit Villa Mirage I and 48-unit Villa Mirage II Apartments located in the city of Rancho Mirage since the day they opened in 1985. Villa Mirage Apartments are managed by San Bernardino-based Four Seasons Management Company.

Since that time, he has demonstrated a strong commitment to improving the quality of life for the families living within the Villa Mirage Apartments.

In addition to spending time with the residents, Vann is dedicated to improving the local community. He is involved in monthly outreach programs for local youths in juvenile halls and prison inmates. Vann also organized an annual vacation bible school for 100 local children.

As a manager, Vann is cost-effective and conscientious balancing the housing needs of the lower income residents while maintaining the appearance and quality condition of the property. Testament to Vann's high standards, California Housing Finance Director John Seymour visited Villa Mirage in 1995 to see first-hand how an affordable housing operation can be successfully managed and operated.

The Affordable Housing Management Association and its foundation are non-profit organizations composed of property managers and related professionals who provide management and products and services to government-assisted housing for low and moderate income families, seniors and persons with disabilities. AHMA currently represents more than 170 agents and owners of assisted housing in the areas of Southern California, Arizona, and Southern Nevada.

The average government worker makes about $18 an hour, plus another $8 in benefits.

Coalition. Meeting with African-American ministers in Atlanta, Reed pledged to raise $1 million to help rebuild the churches. This was part of a strategy of "racial reconciliation." As Reed admitted: "I would not deny a time in our nation's history when the white evangelical church was not only on the sidelines, but on the wrong side of the most central struggle for social justice in this century. I think that was wrong; I think we paid a price for that."

Please excuse me, but I think its time for a reality check. Perhaps these politicians and leaders of the Christian Coalition mean what they say. Maybe there's finally a faint connection between rhetoric and reality on race.

But would someone please answer these two questions for me? First, if 100 percent of all Americans oppose this racist terrorism, then who is burning the churches? As columnist Bob Herbert astutely observed, this is certainly not a case of "spontaneous combustion. The fuel for these fires can be traced to a carefully crafted environment of bigotry and hatred that was developed over the past quarter-century."

Second, if racial oppression is the context for these burnings and desecrations, then who or what is responsible for creating this climate of prejudice, the fear and loathing of African-Americans and other people of color? Where is Bob Dole on the issue of affirmative action? Where is the Republican Congress, on the importance of job programs and social services for the urban poor? Where is the Christian Coalition on the issue of majority-minority legislative districts, and the defense of the Voting Rights Act? Ralph Reed apologizes for the past, but remains silent about the present. Racism is a real and powerful force in American politics and society, both yesterday and today.

The "conspiracy" Clinton refuses to recognize is the convergence of high unemployment, budget cuts, the assault on affirmative action, minority economic set-asides and majority Black legislative districts, and the demonization of both welfare mothers and young Black men. If a political, social and economic environment of hatred is constructed by deliberate policy decisions, we should not be surprised that this hatred manifests itself in the burning of our houses of worship. We cannot end the burnings of our churches unless we uproot the cause of the violence: the burden of inequality and oppression of Black America. What's needed are not more pious and pompous polemics denouncing bigotry, but more decisive action to create a just and more democratic society.

Pal Center Graduates Challenged

The nationally acclaimed speaker, Ron Johnson, former ghetto gang member and drug pusher, turned ordained minister and motivational speaker, saluted recent PAL Center graduates, and challenged them to take control of their lives.

Having "been there and done that", Mr. Johnson related personal anecdotal data and strategies for success and encouraged the graduates to dedicate themselves to helping others as well as themselves. He specifically spoke of all in attendance, from the pre-school graduates to GED recipients to supporters in the audience.

Student speakers expressed appreciation to the PAL Center staff for support and successful training. "They believed in me when I didn't believe in myself," said Tammy Price, student graduate. Dolores Salemi, a former GED graduate spoke of her fulltime employment. Other speakers also expressed appreciation to the PAL Center staff for support and successful training.

Recipients of the Alma Dalton Gates-Mildred Dalton Henry Scholarships were Torrey Thomas, Sandra DeLa Torre, Myiesha Mayo, and Duberly Rodas. The Alan Dyer scholarship was awarded to Walter Knight. All will continue their education at post-secondary institutions.

Felisha Cortez's rendition of "Greatest Love" exemplified the atmosphere as graduates, parents, PAL staff, friends and supporters rejoiced at the culmination of successful study.

Lifestyles

Our Bodies

Ernest Levister, M.D.

DEAR DR. LEVISTER: Is Olestra all they say it is? F.M.

DEAR F.M.: Fat substitutes have been on the market in one form or another for nearly 30 years. They all share one drawback - they can't withstand the cooking temperatures that natural fats can. For this reason fat substitutes have not been used to prepare chips, crackers, cheese puffs and other fried foods.

The Newest Fake Fat

Olestra, marketed under the trade name Olean, by Proctor and Gamble, can stand up to the heat of a deep fat fryer and is calorie free. This designer fake fat resists the assaults of the digestive enzymes and allows the entire structure to pass through the body without being absorbed.

The configuration, though, has a down side as it enables the molecules to pick up a host of fat-soluble nutrients including beta carotene and other carotenoids and vitamin A, D, E and K and takes them along for the ride. Some studies found that it reduces the volunteer's blood levels of beta carotene by 60%.

There is considerable evidence that when levels of beta carotene and other carotenoids fail, the risk of cancer, heart disease and macular degeneration (a disease of the eyes) increases.

In other tests, Olestra is also associated with anal leakage, the uncontrolled seepage of the fat substitute from the body which leaves greasy underwear stains. The problem was reduced by reformulating the product. Despite this the product might cause diarrhea or gastrointestinal disorders.

Given the potential side effects, it makes far more sense to cultivate a taste for foods that are naturally low on fat than to satisfy our "fat tooth" with snacks fried in Olestra.

Dr. Levister welcomes reader mail concerning their bodies but regrets that he is unable to answer individual letters through the mail. Your letters will be incorporated into the column as space permits. You may direct your letters to Dr. Levister in care of Voice News, P.O. Box 1581, Riverside, CA 92502.

Family Talks

Joseph Bailey, II M.D.

In addition to our two great nervous systems, the Central (CNS) and Autonomic (ANS), each of us has two others of magnificence -- the system of feelings and the system of love. All four depend on each other but each is pushed and pulled by its own set of rules. To elaborate, let us return to our potted plant.

Without the soil, the plant cannot come into existence, cannot grow, cannot maintain itself, and cannot bloom. Because the soil gives life and some of its nutrients to the plant and because the roots of the plant are firmly anchored in the soil, the plant and the soil are connected. They have the same basic life stuff. Since the soil uses the plant as an outlet for its beautiful work of making a flower, the plant and the soil work as a team. But they are not the same. Plants require the soil but the soil does not require the plant. Soil is everywhere but plants are only in certain places. In contrast to the soil, plants rise and fall with the seasons.

Spiritual love, as I see it, is like the soil and human love, like the plant. Also in the plant is the system of feelings. Just as beginning reason is an extension of feelings, "seed" or sublime feelings are an extension of human love. These extensions are similar to the way the plant is an extension of the life stuff of the soil.

Looked at another way, if spiritual love ("The soil") is compared with the ocean, human love is like a scooped up bucket of ocean water. Water in the bucket and water in the ocean are teeming with so many different forms of life and power that it is beyond our imagination. Human love is even bigger than anyone's imagination.

As the seed of feelings grows into its stem, branches, and leaves, there is the progressive addition of "dilution and pollution." Hence, whereas "seed" feelings are almost like love, at the opposite end of the vine feelings, the emotional "leaves" are good and bad. Human love is not like that. There is no bad love. Love maintains its same beauty, perfection, goodness, and power throughout the vine. Unlike feelings that arise on impulse, we have free-will control over what we do with love. We are all familiar with using a light switch to turn lights on and off as well as a dimmer switch to control the brightness. Similarly, our free will is both our "on and off" as well as a "dimmer" switch for determining how much love, if any, we will express.

In contrast to feelings that come and go, the love within us is always there for us, just waiting to be used.

Can you see that love and feelings are not the same?

Olympic Business is Big Business, Minority Businesses Share Gold

The Olympic Games mean 'mo' money to Atlanta, the sponsors, and business concerns.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

The ultimate accomplishment is to have the "Gold" placed around your neck at the Olympic Games - no matter the sport or event. Sure the Olympic athletes who have toiled hard and long for the chance to win a gold medal are the stars of the largest peacetime show in the world, and rightfully so . . . but, gold achieved inside the Olympic Stadium isn't the only vehicle for hoisting Olympic "Gold."

Increasingly the grand celebration of sport and peace has turned into a commercial bonanza for many of the athletes, the sponsors, and the organizing committees.

"The Games have grown so much since the time I sent my first athletes out to compete over 30-years ago, that I think IOC (International Olympic Committee) President Juan Samaranch has done a great job of interjecting the commercial realities into the process," said Dr. LeRoy T. Walker the President of the United States Olympic Committee (USOC). "I agree with selling the Games, because it just costs so much to put it on these days, plus the number of participating nations and athletes . . . We have no choice but to get business involved."

Going back to 1896 in Athens, Greece, at what is universally considered the rebirth of the modern Olympic Games - thus the Atlanta Games' billing as the "Centennial Olympic Celebration of 1996" - there were only 13 nations and 311 athletes competing. No television . . . no radio . . . no ESPN . . . no official car or aspirin of the Olympic Games.

Bringing you back to 1996 and kicking your mental calculators into high gear, then the numbers for the Atlanta Games are simply mind boggling. The Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games (ACOG) projects over 10,700 athletes and a record 197 nations have accepted the IOC's invitation to compete.

And that's only the participants. If the participation has increased at the level it has, then an equal and opposite reaction must be taking place, too.

That equal and opposite reaction is the business side of the Games. The Los Angeles Olympic Games and Peter Ueberroth proved implementing an aggressive and smart sports marketing plan - such as the ones pioneered by the NBA All-Star Weekend and NFL Super Bowl - can be transferred into Olympic Business "Gold." The Olympic Games of '84 in Los Angeles produced a windfall gold medal $230 million profit.

It's difficult to say who the largest money winners are and will be in the Olympic's sports business sweepstakes, but, I can identify who the players are and their level of interaction with the Olympic Games.

USOC:

The Olympic committee now operates out of an all-time budget high of $456 million per quadrennium. The USOC also expects revenue of $194 million at the end of this Olympic period. From merchandising and marketing and licensing the USA/five-ring Olympic symbol and other cross license programs, they expect $40 million in royalties for the 1992-1996 quadrennium.

The State of Georgia and ACOG:

At this writing ACOG has already secured more than $800 million from licensing and sponsorship fees, and from its share of the European Broadcast Union (EBU) and U.S. television rights fees. They also expect total revenue to reach or exceed $1.580 billion with ticket sells and other projected income.

As host, Georgia is expecting - and hoping for - the 1996 Games to have a $5.1 billion economic impact on its economy. The large monetary projection is based on ACOG's spending for goods and services produced by Georgia's industries that are required to stage the Games and the out-of-state visitors who will procure goods and services while attending the Games' events, exhibitions and or festivals. Companies involved in hospitality, business services and construction will receive and make the bulk of expenditures and new job creations.

Although the numbers for the Georgia State government do not match ACOG's figures, they will share in the fruits of economic "Gold." Substantial revenue from general sales and use taxes, personal income taxes, selected sales taxes, and corporate income and license taxes will put $176 million in the state's coffers.

Sponsors:

"We've set all kinds of records (for royalties and sponsorships)," said Louis Cunningham, ACOG Marketing Vice President. "We set a number of firsts for marketing and funding. Such as the first ever joint partnership with ACOG and the USOC. Also, we implemented inclusion of numerous minority companies on a level never before accomplished. We kept the licensing down to 100 companies on purpose, to better monitor and service and keep exclusivity of production. We are excited about what's happening here."

OLYMPIC FLAME: The Olympic Games fire-up more than the athletes, the business community also understands the meaning of Olympic Gold.

ACOG and the United States Olympic Committee (USOC) having entered into what Cunningham calls an unprecedented joint marketing and licensing agreement, expect that these agreements will assist in strong account service support and marketing protection in right and services. The hoped for result is that ACOG will produce the very best environment for their sponsors to leverage their investments in the '96 Games.

The sponsors are broken into three major categories: Worldwide sponsors, Centennial Olympic Games Partners, and general sponsors. Coca-Cola, Eastman Kodak, VISA International, Bausch & Lomb, XEROX, Sports Illustrated, Panasonic, IBM, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance and UPS are the 10 worldwide sponsors who paid close to $40 million each for their rights fees.

Additionally, though licensing, ACOG selected premier national, local and minority manufacturers who are producing Atlanta Centennial Olympic Games merchandise. At last count 106 total licensees were listed for the following product categories: Apparel and Headwear, Sporting Goods, Gifts and Novelties, Household Products, Toys and Games, Electronic Software, Publishing, and Food.

"Eighty percent of the world's population will be tuned into Atlanta via television," said Andrew Young, former Atlanta mayor and a key player in ACOG's solicitation process, as he went about his business of selling the Games for Atlanta.

Well, his numbers maybe a little off, but the projections are still tremendous. Along with EUB's over $230 million and NBC's $456 million for television rights, the viewership is expected to reach 3.5 billion worldwide. ACOG notes that over 170 countries will broadcast the Games, and they'll have over 300 live hours of coverage available.

An actual monetary figure that NBC expects to make from the Olympics is not yet available, but, based on the potential viewership (in the billions worldwide) and the fact NBC has already purchased the rights for the Summer Games in 2000 in Sydney Australia at $705 million, the 2004 Games (site-TBD)

at $793 million and 2008 (TBD) at $894 million. In addition they also have the 2002 Winter Games in Salt Lake City, Utah at $545 million and 2006 (TBD) at $613 million.

If NBC has locked themselves into such a communications firms were included in awarded contracts. ACOG estimates that 42% of all construction, architectural and engineering contracts were awarded to African-Americans.

Atlanta businesses are not the only beneficiaries of 'Olympic Business Gold,' the Atlanta University Center (AUC) received $51 million collectively in Olympic development, compared to Georgia Tech's $58 million.

But, the fact is never in Olympic history has historically Black colleges reaped the benefits of inclusion like the ACU schools have. Consider Morehouse College now has a new 5,784-seat arena that will be used for Olympic basketball, but of course it'll house their basketball team after the Games. Morehouse also received $1 million to construct a Sports Medicine Research Center, that will be used to assist in performing drug test on athletes during the Games.

Morris Brown will house the Olympic field hockey venue in a new 15,000-seat stadium, that will be use after the Games by its football team. Clark Atlanta University has gained a 5,000-seat stadium they'll use for football after the Games. Clark also received a new brick walkway or promenade that's meant to connect Olympic venues and a dormitory building that will house Olympic participants during the games. Spelman received major improvements to Read Hall and a state of the art tennis facility.

And no, the Olympics haven't forgotten about the cyber world or space. The 1996 Centennial Olympic Games World-Wide Web Server is being created by IBM. The internet server will provide live Olympic results, competition information, athletes and teams data, news, commentaries, photographs, video, interviews and updated real time stories from the Games.

Does this translate into money? Well, the number of worldwide web site "hits" expected during the Games per day is 10 million. That number equals business gold to all the computer hacks. During the next quadrennium the Games maybe played via internet . . . well, lets hope not - at least not in my lifetime.

Is there a long term economic benefit for hosting the Games? Sure. Over 70,000 jobs were created and hundreds of construction projects that were on the drawing boards for years awaiting funding or support, came to fruition because the Olympic Games provide the momentum and catalyst for funding. And now the existence of these world-class facilities, international media exposure and community civic pride are all real tangible benefits. The state and city of Atlanta is banking on, hoping that they will be chosen to host

Interesting Olympic facts and stuff

1996 Centennial Olympic Games:

- *Accredited print and photographic media: 5,000
- *Broadcast media: 10,000
- *Games-time staff: 99,000 = 1,400 ACOG employees + 45,000 volunteers + 48,000 contractors + 4,600 hourly/temporary/loaned staff
- *Number of seats in the Olympic Stadium: 83,100
- *Number of ACOG language service agents who'll facilitate conversation at Olympic venues: 1,500
- *Number of generator systems that will provide supplemental electricity to Games venues: 62
- *Number of tents to be used during the Games: 1,400
- *Number of meals estimated to be served at Games venues: 33 million
- *Number of athletes and officials that will reside in the Olympic village: 15,000
- *Pound of collard greens cooked for the athletes: 8,000
- *Number of torch bearers who will have carried the Olympic Flame on its journey through the U.S.: 10,000
- *Number of Olympic license plates purchased by the citizens of Georgia: 1 million
- *Number of official ACOG maps to be distributed to Olympic spectators 5 million
- *Number of people who will perform on July 19th for Opening Ceremony and again and on August 4th for Closing Ceremony: 7,000
- *Amount of space Centennial Collectible will occupy in the Atlanta Merchandise Mart: 100,000 square feet huge monetary commitment, then we can only guess the potential revenue windfall they'll receive from advertisers trying to reach global markets, as well as the million or so Atlanta visitors looking to spend . . . spend . . . spend.

"Some people say the minority community didn't get a fair share of the Olympic pie," said Atlanta Mayor Bill Campbell to reporters during an interview, "but the fact of the matter is we have more involvement in putting the Games together than we ever had. Our city will never be the same. I believe everyone who was ready to bid, got at least a look at inclusion."

Although Georgia has a population of 30% African-Americans, they only received about 10% of the Olympic "GOLD." Still, African-Americans walking away with $500 million of the business gold is unprecedented. ACOG notes that over 1,400 minority vendors registered to do business with the Olympics, and 22% (336) were awarded contracts that averaged over $157,000 per vendor.

African-American construction, engineering, architectural, consulting, marketing and events after the Games.

With the Games held in multi-racial Atlanta, and the very real inclusion of many minorities in the "Olympic Business Gold," it's sure the Olympic family and movement will never be the same. With the exposure of so many qualified minorities and the experienced gained from working on or within the '96 Olympic Games, there is no reason during the 1996-2000 quadrennium the USOC, National Governing Bodies and others can't continue what Atlanta has started by staying the course of inclusion.

Many wonder if the Games will really improve the quality of life for Atlantians, but, just as important are the inclusion of minorities into the Olympic organizations and committees, and, the continued business opportunities Olympic Games' venues provide . . . only time will tell if Olympic Business Gold will continue the shared vision ACOG has created and implemented.

You see, Saturns are so reasonably priced, and the shopping experience is so relaxed and pressure-free, that, well, the cars pretty much have the reputation for selling themselves. We don't dispute this. But please, do us a favor, humor the sales consultants just a little, will you? Call them over. Ask a question or two. They really like that. Hope to see you soon.

Every year J.D. Power and Associates conducts a survey of new-car buyers to see how they liked the way they were treated by their salesperson. While Saturn has always ranked right up there with some pretty expensive luxury cars, this year, we're proud to say, for the first time ever, we were ranked "best overall." (Just thought you might like to know - we were sure excited about it.) J.D.
